COLLECTION ONE · SIX PIECES

The Collection

Six pieces, all from one tree. We walked a Savannah live oak from the bottom up: the moss that trails nearly to the ground, the acorns in the sand under it, the long low limb, the bark of the bough, the small plain leaves, the twig at the top. The silver is sterling, darkened and rubbed back to the grey of a limb in shade. The pearls are cultured freshwater, chosen uneven, for the way they hold light off the river.

MATERIALS AND CARE

The Silver, the Pearls, the Care

The silver.

Sterling silver, 92.5% fine silver. Each piece is darkened with a patina, then rubbed back by hand so the raised surfaces catch light and the recesses keep their shade. The patina is meant to move with wear: it lightens where the piece touches skin.

The pearls.

Cultured freshwater pearls, chosen for an uneven surface and a soft overtone. Sizes are given as close figures because no two are alike. The baroque pearl on the pendant varies in shape piece to piece.

The care.

Store each piece on its own, in its pouch. Put pearls on last, after perfume and lotion. Wipe with a soft dry cloth. Do not use a silver dip: it strips the patina and dulls the pearl.

Sterling silver and freshwater pearl, made in Savannah under the live oaks.
