Open this first: Morning Drive — the song.

Your morning commute song is ready. It's a warm, mellow instrumental that runs the full length of a real drive — about two and a half minutes of soft keys and clean guitar over a relaxed, brushed groove and a rounded low end, unhurried from the first bar to the fade. No vocals, nothing that spikes, nothing sleepy: just a smooth, coffee-warm start to the day with the road ahead. Open "Morning Drive — the song" on your workbench and press play — the sunrise cover holds over the music the whole way, so you can watch it or share it as one piece. The cover art is here on its own too. If you want it a touch slower, brighter, longer, or with a different feel to the sleeve, just say the word.
