

Start here

Open this first: The Long Way Home — the song.

It's yours, Hicham — "The Long Way Home." It's playing on your workbench right now; open the song first and let it run. It's a full track, just under three minutes, warm and slow the way we talked about: a voice riding over a soft groove, singing the day off its own shoulders — badge off, the lot gone gold, the city softening on the glass, home a few exits ahead. Not a loop, a real song with verses, a chorus you'll catch the second time around, and a quiet landing on "almost there now, almost home."

The cover is beside it, made by the same hand — the view from inside the car at dusk, rain on the windshield, the city blurring into warm light. There's a square sleeve and a wide version if you ever want it to run across the top of something.

Play it in the car once before you tell me anything. If you want a different voice color, a longer or shorter arrangement, or another mood on the cover, name it and it's an easy next pass.

What is in the kit

1 The Long Way Home — the song (open this first)

song/the-long-way-home.mp3

Your drive-home song, start to finish. Open this first — play it in the car.

2 The Long Way Home — cover

cover/the-long-way-home-square-v2.png

The album sleeve, by the same hand — the square cover for the song.

3 The Long Way Home — wide banner

cover/the-long-way-home-wide.png

A widescreen version of the cover, for a player or header where you want it to run wide.