

The Late Suitor

Your living painting is ready. The Late Suitor now breathes: she looks to the clock, turns her head back toward us for a dry, knowing glance — sharing the joke without ever losing her poise — plays the fan open, and settles into a composed hold. Under her runs a quiet salon piano that resolves into silence as she comes to rest. The face never morphs, the salon stays exactly the original oil, and the humor lives entirely in that millimeter of cracked composure — fun, but a lady the whole way, the register a gallery hero needs. Open the film first; your original painting rides beside it as the anchor it was animated from.

1. The Late Suitor — living painting (with score) (film/the-late-suitor-scored.mp4): The finished hero — the painting brought to life: the clock look, the fan opening, the knowing glance, resolving on a composed hold, under a quiet salon piano. Open this first.

Filed under Extras (reference and supporting material):

- The original painting (Extras/image1.png): Your source painting — the true anchor the living version was animated from.

Everything here also arrives as one zip: the Download kit.